CANNOT FAIL TO INTEREST WOMEN

ALBERTA LADY TELLS OF HER CURE BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Was Weak, Nervous, Run-down and Suffering from Rheumatism—Dodd's Kidney Pills made her a New Person.

Beauvallon, Alta. (Special).—Women who are nervous, run-down and suffering from Rheumatism, cannot fail to be interested in the case of Miss Gertrude E. Reymore, of this place. She was exactly in that condition. To-day she is as she puts it herself "a new person." Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her. Here is her statement given for publication.

"My kidney disease started from a cold two years ago. Rheumatism set in, and I was weak and nervous, and in a run-down condition. I was attended by a doctor who did not appear to understand my case. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new person of me."

Is not Miss Reymore's condition an exact description of nine-tenths of the ailing women of Canada? The doctor did not understand her case. It was simple enough. It was Kidney Trouble. And Kidney Disease is the one great cause of women's troubles. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it.

Eczema on Leg for 25 Years

I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My own doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off, but I said I would try the Cuticura Remedies first. He said, "Try them if you like but I do not think they will do any good." At this time my leg was peeling from the knee down, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After the first two treatments the swelling went down and in two months' use of the Cuticura Remedies my leg was cured and the new skin grown on. The doctor could not believe his own eyes when he saw that Cuticura had cured me and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. But for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. I am truly grateful for the wonderful cure that Cuticura wrought. I have many grandchildren and they are frequent users of Cuticura and I always recommend it most highly as a sure and economical cure for skin troubles.

THE RAG TIME KID.

How He Came to Be Playing in a Forcypine Resort.

There were a few middle-aged men in the room, but the majority were quite young men, almost boys, lean and rugged and keen-eyed, aromatic of the bush bed and the open air. In strange contrast to the robust pioneer crowd on the floor was the "rag-time kid" playing unwearingly at the piano on a little platform in the corner of the room. There was not a speck of color in his white, mild face, and a cigarette drooped from one corner of his mouth. He smoked unceasingly, lighting each cigarette with the glowing butt of the last.

He was an old acquaintance of mine. A member of an orchestra at a Toronto theatre, he had sickened of the city life and the one-room lodging he had shared with his wife and little girl. So he came to Cobalt and sorted out at one of the mines two years ago. He broke down under hard work, and jangled the piano at one of the moving picture shows before the Gowganda rush. The three joined it, but stayed at Elk Lake for a time, all working, even the little girl, until they had a grub stake of a few hundred dollars, and then on to Gowganda. Being English people, they were clumsy in the bush, but at last a cosy little cabin was up on Gowganda Lake, and the little party had a home. The boom burst, the poolrooms shut down, and the pianist lost his job. The fire completed the doom of the town, and in company with dozens of other ruined men, he "legged" it out to Charlton.

"I hadn't an overcoat nor two cents to rub together, but I had a streak of luck. I went into the little moving picture show, and after I had left the piano a man with a bottle in his pocket took me by the coat collar and told me if I wouldn't come with him and play at a show he knew in Porcupine, he would knock my head off."

"He paid my way into Porcupine, and I landed here at four o'clock in the morning, almost frozen stiff and without a cent. As soon as the poolrooms opened I went to the piano in one of them, and pretty soon a crowd of men gathered round. When I got off the stool the boss came to me and said, 'Do you want a job?'"

"Sure," said I.

"Take off your coat and wade right in," he said. "You're engaged." And I've been wading in ever since.

He struck into the Soldier's Chorus from Faust. "Doesn't matter if I don't know it very well," he smiled at me. "This crowd wouldn't know any difference. They like ragtime best. But it wasn't like that in Gowganda in the early days. They knew good stuff, some of them. Many's the time I've had Oxford and Cambridge and Yale and Harvard men come to me and ask for some of Chopin's or Wagner's. And so I always carry some classical stuff."

The Art Club of St. John, N.B.

Canada so far has been too busy pitching steel rails across four thousand miles to have much discrimination in matters aesthetic. Only in the big centres have we in any way adequate facilities for artistic appreciation. There are big art clubs in Toronto and Montreal, which hold annual exhibitions. Art clubs properly conducted in the smaller cities and the towns would strongly compete with the political, social and literary clubs for favor. A chain of such clubs, from Halifax to Vancouver, with lantern slide lectures, would do much to bring about a much-needed Canadian movement in art.

The Art Club of St. John, N.B., is one of the most flourishing of our smaller organizations. This society is composed of citizens of the Maritime city, both men and women, who are interested in artists and their work. Monthly meetings are held, when lectures are given on art subjects. Sometimes there are bridge evenings instead of these discourses. Interest in the club is also maintained by various competitions among the members. No such club could be run on art alone; complications would be sure to arise, the members developing that dreadful malady, "artistic temperament," perhaps. The idea of the St. John people to run an art club successfully is to keep the programme varied, but always having in sight the main purpose—the study of art.—Courier.

A Contretemps.

An unheeded effect which caused much laughter occurred in the performance of a play at a Glasgow theatre the other evening. One of the characters, Tiny Tim, sat down to his dinner and leant back against a stage wall, which, being only a curtain, yielded with his weight, with the result that Tim tumbled head over heels. Earlier in the play a ghost was hampered in his movements by an easy chair, and instead of passing through it, as a ghost ought to do—at least so we are told by the fiction writers they do—he bent down and pushed it aside quite in the way of an ordinary mortal.

CANADA'S AGNES'S.

The Dominion Has Three at Least to Be Proud of.

Do any of my gentle readers desire their daughters to be bright and brainy, to make a name for themselves, to cut a swath in the world today that would make a suffragette grow green with envy? Asks W. Everett Edwards in the Canadian Century. Now don't all speak at once, but here is the recipe: Call her Agnes, and train her for a school teacher.

Let me illustrate. First, there was Agnes Knox, a St. Mary's girl, who delighted first her family circle, then her native town, next all Ontario, and finally all Canada with her delightful interpretations of literature. As a teacher of elocution in the Normal School, Toronto, I think it is safe to say that every unengaged male student was in love with her, and the male students formed a pretty large proportion in those days, too. Her success as a teacher was equalled by her platform successes, and a good many Canadians have always felt a certain grievance against Dr. Chayton Black for carrying her as his bride away to distant Boston. Even there Mrs. Black's talents could not be hidden, and she is now dean of a college whose name I cannot for the moment recall.

Then there is Agnes C. Laut, teacher, journalist and historian, who after completing her education in Winnipeg taught in the city schools for a time. Later she joined the staff of the "Manitoba Free Press," and soon found her feet in the journalistic arena. As a special correspondent she is among the elect, and the editor who secures her services is fortunate. Besides acting as correspondent for many foreign publications she has found time to produce some six or seven books and to contribute special articles to many magazines.

Though now a resident of the United States Miss Laut has lost none of her love for Canada and its people, and in this connection let me cite one charming little incident. When a certain editor was doubtful about publishing "Sowing Seeds in Danny," it was Miss Laut who turned the scale in its favor. Learning that the author was a Canadian, she read the manuscript and recommended its publication. In this instance she has done us all a good turn—author, editor, and public—and all three hold her in blessed remembrance.

Nor must we forget Agnes Deans Cameron—A.D.C.—aide-de-camp to the Canadian Commissioner of Immigration. Born in sunny Victoria, she began to teach before she was out of short dresses, and for twenty-five years she has been closely identified with the schools of her native province. A few years ago while holding the position of principal of South Park School, Victoria, she had a dispute with her trustee board and resigned. Then she ran for trustee and had the satisfaction of being elected. It was about this time that she took up journalistic work, writing of Canada's whetstones. Her success was immediate, and in 1908 she made a notable journey into the Northland covering in all about ten thousand miles. This trip furnished her with material for a book, a number of brilliant magazine articles, and a breezy lecture, "From Wheat to Whales."

Miss Cameron is now employed by the Immigration Department in special work in England; and it is rumored that she will publish another book this spring. Her style is most original, and this little description of the English remittance-man is characteristic:

"The tales they tell of these Bond Street misfits would fill a book. And yet one of the most picturesque features of cosmopolitan and metropolitan Calgary are these same outcroppings of wheatear's Pezage—leather leggings, riding-breeches made in London Town, a monocle, the corrected thing in riding-crops, and collars and cuffs like Caesar's wife—as he swings down the main street, head in air, he is indeed good to look at. Pity he is so useless. Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. He will not arroy, he lives on the unearned increment and tolls not, neither does he spin, so the West spits him out of its mouth."

Yes, sir, there's no doubt about it, Canada is real proud of her Agnes's.

Flour in Prussia.

The first steam flour mill in Prussia was built in 1822. Up to that time grain had been ground on the share, but the new system made flour a commodity of trade, and by 1848 the bakers were buying flour alone.

Seventh Sons in Belgium.

In the early days of the reign of the late King Leopold of Belgium a seventh son was born to a Brussels woman, and when the king heard of it and was told that the boy was the seventh successive one and that no girl had come to the family he asked to be the baby's godfather. Ever since then every seventh son born in Brussels has had the same honor, and the mothers have received gifts in keeping with their station in life.

HEAT AND COLD.

The Range Between Liquid Helium and the Arc Light.

Have you never wondered on some terribly cold winter day, when the falling temperature had long since passed the zero mark, if it could possibly be any colder anywhere, and then, when summer comes and the mercury is apparently never going to stop climbing, you cannot imagine how anything could be hotter or more uncomfortable?

Fortunately we live in a world where the temperature seldom exceeds the limits of, say, 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit and 110 above. This seems a tremendous range of temperature, but it is only trivial compared with that found on every side in nature or in the laboratory. Why, this 160 degrees is less than the range through which a dish of cold water is heated when you place it on the stove to boil.

A moment's thought of some of these higher and lower temperatures is well worth while. Liquid air at 312 degrees below zero is cold, but liquid hydrogen at 421 is still colder, while liquid helium at 451 below zero is the coldest thing we know of. Going the other way, lead melts at 620 degrees above zero Fahrenheit, while gold remains solid up to a bright red heat, or 1,940 degrees. A good furnace fire may get several hundred degrees hotter than this. Platinum, one of the most refractory of metals, melts only when intensely white hot at a temperature of 3,230, but even this is 100 degrees or so less than the temperature of the flame on your gas stove.

The hotter a body is the more light it gives, so the tungsten lamp filament, which runs at about 4,500 degrees, gives a brighter and whiter light than the carbon filament at 3,500. The electric arc gives still more light for a given amount of current consumed and generates a temperature not far from 7,200 degrees Fahrenheit. This is the highest temperature we can produce artificially. No metal known can stand this terrible heat, and even most refractory substances, such as carbon, are volatilized by it.

But, while the arc is indeed hot, it is by no means the highest temperature to be found in nature. There are the best of reasons for believing that the temperature of the sun is some 12,000 degrees or more, and it is probable that some of the stars are still hotter. This great heat explains the almost unbelievable fact, found by Langley, that sunlight is 5,000 times brighter than the dazzling stream of molten metal from a Bessemer converter.—New York Tribune.

They Both Knew.

When the war ended Thomas R. Reed went to California with a vague plan of settling in that new country. He used to tell with intense delight of his examination for admission to the bar of California. A young southerner came before the judge for examination at the same time. The judge asked the southerner if the legal tender acts were constitutional, and the young man answered without a moment's hesitation, "No." Then the judge turned to Reed and asked him the same question. Mr. Reed with equal promptness answered, "Yes."

"Very well," said the judge, "you are both admitted. Two men who can answer that question without hesitation ought to be admitted to any bar."

—Henry Cabot Lodge in Century.

Very Simple.

A rather simple looking lad halted before a blacksmith's shop on his way home from school and eyed the doings of the proprietor with much interest. The brawny smith, dissatisfied with the boy's curiosity, held a piece of red-hot iron suddenly under the youngster's nose, hoping to make him beat a hasty retreat.

"If you'll give me half a dollar I'll lick it," said the lad.

The smith took him from his pocket half a dollar and held it out.

The simple looking youngster took the coin, licked it, dropped it in his pocket and slowly walked away whistling.

Making Life Worth "Livin'."

The other day I beheld a woman whose husband earns something less than $200 a month purchasing her season's wardrobe. Into it went one hat at $50 and another at $30. Her neighbors in the flat building admired and envied. One of the bolder wondered, "Well, I can't help it," said Mrs. Jones. "I just tell Mr. Jones life isn't worth livin' if I can't have what I want."—Atlantic.

Not in the Index.

"Sir," said the sleek-looking agent, approaching the desk of the meek, meandering-looking man and opening one of those folding thingumajigs showing styles of binding, "I believe I can interest you in this massive set of books containing the speeches of the world's greatest orators. Seventy volumes, one dollar down and one dollar a month until the price, six hundred and eighty dollars, has been paid. This set of books gives you the most celebrated speeches of the greatest talkers the world has ever known and—"

"Let me see the index," said the meek man.

The agent handed it to him and he looked through it carefully and methodically, running his finger along the list of names.

Reaching the end he handed the index back to the agent and said: "It isn't what you claim it is. I happen to know the greatest talkers in the world, and you haven't her in the index."

Thomas Hughes, when a small boy, had a guinea given him. This coin his grandmother took away, without his consent, and purchased for him a fine copy of Milton's poetry, saying that he would value it when he grew up, whereas, had he spent the money, he would only have wasted it on the transitory joys of marbles, tops and cany.

Needless to say, the unfortunate boy did not see matters in this light; and in after years Thomas Hughes wrote in his "Early Memories."

"I owe to my grandmother a dislike to Milton's poetry, which I doubt if I have ever quite got over."—Youths Companion.

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often dangerous. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

Lieutenant Takeshira, of the Japanese navy, says, "The Americans are a very proud people. I was talking with an American sailor. He said that no one outside of America amounted to much."

"But," I asked, "what were your father and mother?"

"Yankies," said the sailor.

"What were your grandfather and grandmother?"

"Finally I asked him, 'How about Adam and Eve?'"

"Yankies, too, by jinks!" said he.

When Mrs. Jacob Latschaw, of Ontonagon, Pa., went to get the eggs, a huge rooster jumped at her and struck her a number of times with his sharp spurs, tearing her flesh deeply. Her husband came to the rescue and the chancier pitched into him and hit him on the ankle piercing a blood-vessel, so that the man was unable to walk.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE BABY.

Baby's Own Tablets is the one medicine that can be given little ones with the firm knowledge that nothing but good will result. The Tablets are sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to contain no opiate nor any other drug which will harm the youngest child—they cannot possibly do harm; they always do good; and once a mother has used them she will never again give her little ones castor oil or the "soothing" stuffs which simply drug baby into temporary relief and in the end do harm. Mrs. Philias Paradis, Frampton, Que., writes: "Send me two more boxes of Baby's Own Tablets. I have used them for constipation and have always found them very good. My baby is certainly progressing under the Tablets." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHEERING HIM UP.

But Dr. Coulter Could Not Share the Young Man's Optimism.

Dr. Coulter, the Deputy Postmaster-General, is noted for his kindly treatment of the subordinate clerks and officials of the Department. Sometimes, however, the unwary, whose chief duty is trying to shirk their work, are caught napping. Quite recently one of the clerks who held down a high job was promoted to a higher grade in the Postoffice Department, and so carried away by his success was he, that throwing discretion to the winds, he began to turn up not a 9.30 a.m. but at 10 and 10.30. Finally one morning the clock in the main tower was tolling eleven when in strutted "Mr. Man," swinging his cane, just fresh from his morning parade on Sparks street. Dr. Coulter had been at his desk since eight o'clock, and as luck would have it, he noticed the entrance of his subordinate.

"Good morning, doctor," said the delinquent, jauntily, "lovely morning, isn't it?"

Coulter looked at him for a moment, and then said: "Why are you so late?"

"Oh, really, you know, doctor, it is such a beautiful morning," was the bland reply of the gilded youth, who added, "I hope you are satisfied with my services."

"Not a bit of it," growled the doctor. "I am greatly disappointed in you. What do you mean, sir, by coming in at this hour?"

"Oh, well, this was the unexpected reply," said the doctor, "doctor, the world is full of disappointments. It is understood there is a vacancy now in Class III, subdivision B, of the Postoffice Department."

Vancouver's Growing Pains.

They are having a wild time in Vancouver at the present writing. Vancouver wants to grow, and claims that weights are being placed on her head, to stunt her growth.

Near the city of Vancouver is South Vancouver, a separate municipality, some 40,000 big, and possessing three times more acres than Vancouver itself. Now it seems that Vancouver languishes for South Vancouver. Both parties are enamoured of each other, and anxious for an alliance. Not long ago, Vancouver got after the McBride Government to join the knot. Here is where the fun comes in. The Legislature refused to grant a license. It argued paternally that Vancouver did not have the price for matrimony, there being some big sewage and water problems which would require settling first. In Vancouver up rose Mayor Taylor, who owns a newspaper. With this weapon he began to lash the McBride Government. He urges that the refusal of the lawmakers is a political move aimed in part against him, a Liberal. He goes further, and classes the Liberals with the Tories. On the ground that both these parties are inimical to the interests of Vancouver, he announces a third party—Taylor—to fight the annexation issue to the death. Such a valiant upholder of civil liberties has followers. The other night, 2,000 citizens of Vancouver, standing en masse, passed a resolution that the five M.P.P.'s representing Vancouver be asked to resign. Mayor Taylor has challenged "Napoleon" Bowser, Attorney-General, to combat; he has, offered to come down from the mayor's chair and contest a Vancouver constituency with that rotund gentleman.—Courier.

Canada's One Boast.

Most Canadians are r—r—the love of statistics which characterize their cousins across the line. They all know where their native city rank in size in the Union, and can tell as many other interesting facts as a guide book. A man from the United States was recently taking lunch with a Torontonian and by way of entertainment he gave facts about his own town. It had a picture gallery which ranked seventh on the continent; its park system stood about fifth, and he told some of its particulars; there was a spire on one of the churches which stood well to the top in height; and different manufactures were also leading in their special lines. Then he turned to comparing different things in the United States with corresponding things in Canada, and the Torontonian found that he always had to remain silent when overshadowed because he was ignorant of the exact figures. The talk turned upon railroads, and the champion of Uncle Sam told some startling facts about the lines in his country. At last the Canuck was sure of his ground. "Well," he remarked, "your railroads may be longer, but I feel sure that ours are just as wide."

Illustrating a Cure.

Hon. J. O. Reaume, M.D., the French-Canadian from Essex, who is Ontario's Minister of Public Works, has a ready wit. On his way to attend one of the Legislature committees the other day he stopped in the corridor to greet his friend, O. E. Fleming, K.C., of Windsor. The auburn-haired King's Counsel is tall and somewhat spare in build. He introduced to the Minister Robert J. Fleming, the head of Toronto's street railway system, who was with him. R. J. Fleming is anything but spare.

"Ah," said Dr. Reaume, as he looked at the Windsor Fleming and turned to survey the portly form of the street railway manager, "Before and after taking."

Will Offer Books.

Stored in the vaults of Parliament are duplicates of the United States congressional and departmental reports, as well as of official reports of the State of New York, and, as the state library was destroyed by the fire which recently visited the capitol at Albany, many of the spare volumes in the Canadian library would be of value in replacing publications thus lost. An inventory is being made of these duplicates, with a view to making an offer of them to the New York State authorities. The books are all in excellent preservation and run back to about the year 1854.

C. A. MAGRATH'S VIEWS ON RECIPROCITY
GLEICHEN UNITED FARMERS DISCUSS
LETTER AND OTHER INTERESTING SUBJECTS

The meeting of the Gleichen Local of the United Farmers of Alberta held last Saturday proved unusually interesting, although the only officers present were Vice-Pres. Osterlander and Sec. W. D. Treggs. The minutes read that the correspondence of the secretary, C. A. Magrath, M. P., were read and discussed and the secretary was instructed to write Mr. Magrath asking him to more fully explain a number of his arguments against the reciprocity question. The matter of making arrangements for winter travel was taken up and discussed and held over until next meeting. When this meeting was held on a special meeting on Saturday, May 20th, to further consider the matter, this committee was instructed to secure a full attendance of the members. The secretary has kindly allowed the privilege of the letter above re-ferred to from Mr. C. A. Magrath, M. P., for this district, which I give in full below.

I am just in receipt of your letter re Reciprocity Agreement. When this letter was first brought before us, I was disposed to favor it. The fact I have received the matter over in my mind, the less I have liked it, and have reached the conclusion that I cannot support it. I note your remarks that the people I represent are almost unanimously in favor of it. I certainly do not understand the situation. I feel that the question should be placed before the people to pass upon, in my judgment, the character of the pact is the most important that has ever occurred in the history of this country. We have no interest outside of Alberta and I am not interested in any way in this country. No one down here has attempted to canvas for it and I have no number of requests from my constituents to support it and I have had several to oppose it.

I do not object to the United States taking down their tariff wall and allowing our products to go into that country. I gave in a letter to put a board fence around this country. The situation that will be created, in my judgment, is that there will be a lowering of prices in agricultural products, and our own home market. The United States is allowing our products to go into that country, and in return, we are allowing the products of any other country to go into this country. We are allowing her surplus products the free run of our markets, and in addition, we are allowing the farm products of practically every agricultural country in the world the free run of our markets. This condition is brought about through the favored nation tariff policy in existence.

A LITTLE STORY OF IRRIGATION

There were two men who had two adjoining quarter sections in the Canadian Pacific Railroad's Irrigation Block in Southern Alberta; one was a farmer, the other thought he was. They both got up early in the morning, cultivated their ground and planted their crops. The farmer employed irrigation intelligently; the other man trusted to the Lord to send the water along at the right time.

When the harvest came, the farmer took off 40 1-2 bushels of winter wheat to the acre, the other man took his note to the bank to have it renewed. The farmer made enough off his crop to:

1. Pay for the land at $25 an acre

2. Reimburse himself for the expenditure in connection with cultivation of his land.

3. And to pay for the fences and other improvements on the land.

Irrigation farming is successful farming because it is business farming. You don't have to worry about weather conditions. Your crop is INSURED and your future and independence ASSURED.

Provincial Notes

New C.P.R. Building

The plans conceived by the C.P.R. for the grouping of the Irrigation Land and Hotel Buildings, on the property between First Street East and First Street West, at Calgary, will provide for a very imposing array of stone structures, of which the station will be the centre. The new C.P.R. Hotel on the north-western corner of the property, and the new Irrigation and British Columbia Land Company building on the north-eastern portion, will be emphasized by their architectural relation. Entrance to the Irrigation and British Columbia Land Company building will be from the C.P.R. gardens, and will be facing directly west. Concrete walks from Ninth Avenue and the station will be made, and the gardens rearranged. This building will be completed October 1st. It will be of reinforced concrete, fireproof throughout, the outer walls of sandstone veneer, and the partitions of hollow tile. An imposing entrance leads to a hall on the first floor, five feet and a half above the ground level. The basement will accommodate the sales and stock rooms, vaults and junior's quarters. On the first floor will be the Irrigated Lands and British Columbia Land Department; on the second, the Treasury Department, Library and Offices of Mr. J. S. Dennis; on the third, the Publicity Branch, Engineers, Railway Townsites, and Agency Department; the fourth will be given over to the engineers. Offices will be fitted in magnificent finished fir and birch. The heating and plumbing will be modern in every detail. A telephone exchange will be installed. The dimensions are 122 x 45 feet, with four stories above the basement.

Seeding in the Irrigation Block
Seeding in the Irrigation Block is progressing in a most satisfactory way. Spring wheat is almost completed. Oats are being planted at the present time; potatoes, barley and flax will come be the regular order during the next three weeks. The new British Colonists who have taken up "ready-made" farms at Cairnhill Colony, have nearly completed their seeding and the same may be said of the Crossfield Colony. The British settlers show excellent adaptability, and are well satisfied with their surroundings. The cool weather which has existed lately has hindered the progress of the work somewhat, but will in no way injure the crops. The high price for flax seed will reduce the acreage somewhat; scarcity of flax for oil purposes will no doubt make flax high for some time to come, which, under ordinary conditions, should make flax-growing very profitable. Winter wheat, in the main, looks well, and gives promise of a bountiful crop.

A Government Demonstration Farm For Columbia Valley

R. R. Bruce, capitalist and mine owner of Wilmer, B. C., who has been traveling in Great Britain and Europe, passed through British Columbia, along with J. B. Anderson, an expert employed by the government in connection with experimental farms, throughout the Dominion. An experimental farm is to be located in the Columbia Valley, and the land has recently been acquired by the government. Tests will be made as to the fruit growing qualification of the district by means of the experimental farm, and the establishing of this means a lot to the district. Experiments in the growing of alfalfa, lucerne and clover will also be made. Mr. Bruce states that all eyes are turned towards Canada in Great Britain, and that Western Canada is particularly fortunate in this respect. He spent six months in the old country. C. H. Davidson, banker, of Minneapolis, accompanied Mr. Bruce.

Crop Conditions in the South Country

"The fall wheat in the south country is in splendid condition, and everything is shaping up fine for a record crop." The above was the statement made on Saturday night by A. D. Fidler, inspector of local improvement districts, on his return from an extended trip through the south country. Mr. Fidler further stated that on his trip he did not see a single poor field of wheat, but all were beginning to look green, and the plants appeared strong and healthy. Even on poorly cultivated land the crop looks good. The farmers all over the south are right into seeding and are sowing a greatly increased acreage of spring wheat, some of the larger farmers sowing from 400 to 500 acres of this grain. The ground is in excellent condition in regard to moisture, and the farmers are largely using packers to conserve it. Last year at seeding time there was very little moisture in the ground, and little rain during the growing season. This year, however, things are entirely different, and with moderate rains during the summer it should be a great year for the south. Stock came through the winter fairly well, and although a little thin in flesh, look strong and healthy. The loss has been small. Mr. Fidler said that he talked with dozens of farmers in regard to the prospects, and the universal expression was one of hope and confidence.

Millions of Feet of Natural Gas

The shareholders of the Calgary Natural Gas Co., met in Calgary and formally ratified the amalgamation of the company with the Prairie Fuel Gas Company of Bow Island. The agreement to amalgamate was arrived at some weeks ago, but the shareholders had not officially passed upon it. The Prairie Fuel Gas Company is proceeding with its work at Bow Island. The company now has two wells and is boring others. The flow from the present wells is very great and there is no fear of shortage. Manager Dingman of the company stated that the flow of gas at the Bow Island wells alone amount to 16,000,000 cu. ft. per day. The steel pipes through which the gas will be piped to Calgary are now being made in England and will be shipped before long. The pipe line will start with 16-inch pipes at Bow Island and gradually reduce. It will be 150 miles in length, and the expectation is that gas will be coming from Bow Island through this pipe before a year has passed. The pipes can be laid winter or summer, as practically no excavation will be necessary.

One thousand chickens have been hatched during the past month by incubator at the Canadian Pacific Demonstration Farm, Stratmore. This is the first hatch of three thousand chickens that are being produced to stock the "ready-made" poultry farms for British settlers in that vicinity, and to feed the passengers on the C.P.R. diners. The hatch is running from 70% to 80% of the fertile eggs, which is a very satisfactory showing.

A man in good health finds it easy to laugh at the ills of others.

Agent Gooderham is having a new flag pole erected in front of the Blackfoot Agency.

J. M. Howell, a popular druggist of Greenough, Ky., says: "We use Chamberlain's Remedy in our home and know it is excellent." For sale by all dealers.

Chief Wakefield injured his foot at the fire last week and has been going about since with the aid of a walking stick. It is the same foot he injured when the old Palace Hotel burned last year, and was laid up for some weeks.

It would seem some scheme could be devised for having all our boys supplied with accident insurance. They should be protected when they fight fire for the rest of us.

After years of effort a Berlin inventor has succeeded in building a model man that can walk, talk, sing and whistle.

Is there anything in the world that is more important to you than good digestion? Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested into converted into blood. When the digestive fails the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. For sale by all dealers.

The uses of tea, coffee, booze and tobacco are detrimental and expensive. They are of no value whatever to the human race. If the men who work would abandon their use entirely we would not have so many strikes, suicides, murders, mine or railway accidents. The money squandered in the above articles is sufficient to make every workman rich in a few years time.
